NeoSystems Expands to Huntsville, Alabama

Makes Key Hire and Sees Numerous Business Opportunities in the Region

Vienna, Virginia/January 26, 2010 – NeoSystems Corporation, which helps government contractors to meet accounting and financial management challenges, today announced that it has opened an office in Huntsville, Alabama. Ms. Terri Light will direct the office. She has more than 20 years in the accounting industry, including extensive work in Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system implementations, financial and accounting functional management and personnel training

“NeoSystems is very optimistic about the future of the Huntsville region and the growth opportunities that it presents for our company. The Huntsville region has a large and growing number of dynamic government contractors, particularly in the defense and aerospace sector,” said Michael Tinsley, CEO and President of NeoSystems.

“We specialize in helping companies like these to more efficiently and cost effectively meet accounting and financial management challenges, while ensuring they comply with complex and growing compliance regulations,” said Mr. Tinsley.

Ms. Light has served numerous companies, instituting new accounting practices and systems that improve accuracy and reduce costs. Prior to joining NeoSystems, she had her own accounting and consulting practice. Ms. Light has also served as a Controller and Accounting Manager for defense contractors. She earned a Master of Business Administration and a B.S.B.A., Accounting and Management Information Systems, from the University of Alabama in Huntsville.

“NeoSystems’ has a unique and very effective approach to serving government contractors,” said Ms. Light. “The firm employs sophisticated software and skilled professionals so that government contractors can address accounting and financial management challenges more efficiently and cost effectively.”
